House.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Finerty said he was absent yesterday when the vote was taken on the passage of the Fitz John Porter bill under the belief that he was paired. He found he was mistaken. Had he been present he would have voted for the bill.

Robinson of New York made a similar statement.

Hammond submitted the report of the select committee appointed to inquire whether any ex-members have violated the privileges of the house. The committee find no custom or usage which would justify them in the conclusion that the conduct of William H English in the contested election case of English vs Peelle was a breach of the privileges of the house and recommend that the matter be laid on the table.

Millard presented a minority report accompanied by a resolution excluding William H English from the floor during the rest of congress.

Weller rose to a question of privilege in order to vindicate himself from charges made against him, but ceased when Randall declared that every member of the select committee would agree that the testimony thoroughly vindicated him.

Hammond moved to lay the whole matter on the table. Carried—yeas 13[illegible], nays 7[illegible].

It was moved that when the house adjourned to-day that it be to meet Saturday next. It was thought this action would give time for the conference committees to meet and would thereby facilitate final adjournment. Agreed to—120 to 54.

The house resumed consideration of the Mexican pension bill, but so much opposition was manifested against the measure that progress was rendered very slow.

Townshend said, in response to an inquiry, that the house would not adjourn till the bill passed.

O'Neill of Missouri, from the committee on labor, reported two resolutions which were placed on the house calendar, proposing constitutional amendments conferring on congress power to limit the hours of labor in textile and other manufacturing establishments and prohibiting states from hiring convict labor.

The senate amendments to the fortification appropriation bill were not concurred in, and Randall, Forney and Keifer were appointed conferees.

The house then resumed consideration of the Mexican pension bill.

Hewitt (Ala.) raised a point of order that the house must consider in committee of the whole the senate amendments granting pensions to widows of soldiers in the Mexican war who were married after their discharge. The speaker sustained the point of order.

The house proceeded to consideration of the amendments, but the opponents of the measure resorted to filibustering tactics and left the house without a quorum, and recess was taken till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Congressional Notes

CONGRESS WILL ADJOURN MONDAY

WASHINGTON, July 3.—It seems tolerably certain that congress will close the present session by noon Monday, the last regular appropriation bills having been passed by the senate to-day. All absolutely necessary work of Congress remaining unfinished is now in conference committees. It is thought by leading members of the house that it will be possible to close up this unfinished business by Saturday evening, and if this is done the programme will be to take a recess until Monday at noon, that interval being sufficient to allow the enrolling of the appropriation bills and to meet only for the purpose of signing these bills. The proposition has been under consideration to take a recess from Saturday for ten days so as to cover the convention period, but this has been set aside as impracticable. It was concluded if a recess of that length were to be taken there would be difficulty in getting enough members back to Washington to make a quorum in either house, that it would impose unnecessary expense upon the members, and that if congress were to assemble after the convention the session would be prolonged indefinitely. Under these circumstances it was deemed best to hurry through the appropriation bills and get away as soon as possible.

IN FAVOR OF A NEW TREATY

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Representative Belmont has been authorized by the house committee on foreign affairs to report a resolution as a substitute for Representative Maybury's joint resolution introduced some time since directing the president to open negotiations for the renewal of the Canadian reciprocity treaty of [illegible], stating that in the opinion of the house closer commercial relations with other countries on the American continent would be of mutual advantage, and should the executive see fit to consider propositions for freer commerce with the dominion such negotiations would be viewed with favor.

CONTESTED ELECTION CASES

WASHINGTON, July 3.—In the contested election case of Craig vs Shelly of Alabama, the house committee on elections decided to report in favor of Craig. It also agrees to report in favor of Maginnis in the contested election case of Bolton vs Maginnis in Montana. Shelly and Maginnis are the sitting members.

THE FORTIFICATIONS BILL

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The fortifications bill passed the senate without debate precisely as it came from the senate appropriation committee. The most important change made by the committee was an increase of $200 000 in the house item for armament for seacoast fortifications.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE

BOSTON, June 20, 1884

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The dispatch purporting to be signed by Mrs. Kate Garnett Wells and circulated as a handbill in election day in Oregon was not only a gross misrepresentation of facts but was not published as signed by her and is therefore in part a forgery. Whether it was doctored in Boston or in Portland I have no means of knowing. Mrs. Wells has sent me an exact copy as she signed it and adds: "You will notice that it differs somewhat from the handbill." But it was bad enough without the doctoring. It contains as many misstatements as sentences. Let me answer the allegations of the fraudulent handbill seriatim.

The dispatch signed by Mrs. Wells was as follows:

"Female suffrage loses ground where known longest. In Massachusetts women remonstrate strenuously. Adverse vote this year 144 to 50. Worst defeat for seventeen years. Voters of Oregon should know these facts. Letters mailed."

The dispatch published in Oregon was as follows:

"Female suffrage [loses] ground in this state and all the east where most agitated."

Women have within the last few years secured school suffrage in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York. Since January 1 1884 in Massachusetts [illegible] citizens have petitioned for woman suffrage. That is more than twice as many as have ever petitioned for it in any previous year. It is more than five times as many as petitioned for it last year (4007). [illegible] a woman suffragist in the east who believes that the cause is lost or losing ground. Even the men and women who lately organized an anti woman suffrage association in this city did so on the ground that the agitation had become too formidable to be longer ignored. One of the most eminent men connected with the remonstrants recently wrote to remonstrants in Cambridge that if they did not go to work [illegible] actively woman suffrage would be established in Massachusetts within two years.

In this state women remonstrate strenuously against it.

This conveys a totally false impression. How many women remonstrate? Less than 4000. Less than 1 per cent of the women of the state. After an organized effort employing hired canvassers and in some cases [illegible] by false representations about 4000 names of remonstrants have been sent to the state house along with 21 332 petitioners for woman suffrage. And [illegible] of these petitioners were women. The correct statement would have been this: Four fifths of our women who have expressed themselves are in favor of woman suffrage and one fifth are opposed.

The adverse vote in this state is on a basis of 144 to 50.

There has never been a vote on the question in this state adverse or otherwise. For seventeen years the legislature has been annually asked to submit it to the voters and every year the request has been refused. What Mrs Wells probably meant but failed to say was that last spring there was an adverse vote in one legislature. But even that she failed to state correctly. The vote for woman suffrage including pairs stood 155 to 61—not 144 to 50.

This is (the) the worst defeat in seventeen years.

[illegible] means. In 1879 a bill for municipal woman suffrage was rejected in the house without a count. Repeatedly during the past seventeen years the woman suffragists have failed altogether to secure a consideration in the house. [illegible] given this year to the debate and the speeches [illegible] opposition were [illegible] than ever before. No speaker this year ventured to indulge in [illegible] which disgraced the debate in 1884.

[illegible] in Oregon should know these facts. Vote against it.

These alleged facts as I have shown are not facts at all. This appeal therefore asked for votes in Oregon against the woman suffrage constitutional amendment upon false pretences.

The crowning unfairness of this dispatch sent at the last moment was that it represented the adverse legislative vote in Massachusetts as something new and startling which Oregon voters did not know, [illegible] something which had occurred [illegible] before and had been reported in the Oregon papers at the time.

It gives me sincere pain that any woman should allow herself to seek by such unfair means to produce the unjust disabilities imposed on her own sex. I have no reason to suppose that the telegram changed many votes, or that such opposition will retard the movement for the enfranchisement of women for a single day. But it shows the methods to which some of the opponents of woman suffrage are willing to resort.

I suppose it is useless to expect that the Standard will give these facts to its readers. But I hope and believe that THE OREGONIAN and the press of the state generally will expose the fraud. [illegible]

Respectfully,
HENRY B BLACKWELL

Candidates in Washington Territory

I do not see," says ex-Judge Clayton, "any immediate prospect of the admission of Washington territory [illegible] the statehood [illegible] about the extreme [illegible] and of [illegible] territory of [illegible] people. The eyes of the east seem so wrapped up in their own interest that they do not have time to consider any bill [illegible], no matter how important it is to the country. We should be admitted before the presidential election and we would return three republican electoral votes. The territory is republican because the great majority of immigrants are from the eastern and middle western republican states. The great trouble is we have so many politicians and not enough for the area of territory. There are about twenty five defined candidates for the United States senate and double that number of [illegible] and the number of men who are willing to sacrifice themselves for state offices would perhaps fill up your paper."

POLITICAL NEWS AND GOSSIP.

The Situation Among the Democrats Becoming Complicated.

CLEVELAND APPARENTLY LOSING STRENGTH

Delegates to the National Convention Assembling at Chicago—Butler to be Welcomed by a Demonstration

Among the Democrats.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—[Special.]—As the time for the Chicago convention approaches speculation among congressmen as to the probable selection of the standard bearer for the democracy becomes more and more varied, and the situation from the Washington standpoint may be said to be decidedly mixed. Everyone appears to have a candidate of his own for first choice. The Cleveland boom appears to have lost considerable strength and Randall in the meantime has been gaining. McDonald and [illegible] for president and vice president respectively appear to have had the most supporters during the past week.

In the main Bayard still holds the call and his friends say that he is one of the few men who can carry the party to success.

During the past few days Tilden and Rosecrans have been prominently mentioned for first and second places, and the latter has many friends who will urge his election for first place on the ticket. A number of senators and members agree that no stronger name could be presented as a counterpoise to the ticket which bears on its face the name of Tilden. It is claimed for Rosecrans that he would carry the Pacific slope and that if any man can carry Ohio he is the man. A member of the working men's organization to-day exhibited a letter from John Kelly in which that distinguished democrat spoke in warm terms of General Rosecrans.

THURMAN'S CHANCES

The friends of ex-Senator Thurman are more sanguine of success than they have been heretofore. They claim that the selection of Judge Thurman as the democratic candidate will be assured if the Ohio delegation will unite upon him as their choice. It is feared by the more conservative however that the strength of Payne and Hoadly will prevent such unity of action.

General Slocum said to-day that he did not believe that Brooklyn would give a vote for Cleveland. Kings county he said held the balance of power and would go against him. He couldn't get a vote on Long Island [illegible] from Kings, Queens and Suffolk counties. Butler's influence will be exerted in favor of the New Yorker and discount all opposition.

THE SITUATION AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 3.—The gathering of the delegates to the convention goes on but slowly. Some members from distant points and one solid delegation, that of California, are here, but as yet things in the local political world are comparatively quiet. The sub-committees on arrangements of the national committee have been hard at work here for the past week, but so far their labors have been all in the direction of organizing and perfecting the innumerable details of the convention. The changes in the hall are almost completed and it is expected that the theater chairs for the delegates and the other seats will go in position to-night. It has been decided to light the hall with electricity, which will not only illuminate the building better but also insure a much cooler atmosphere.

W. H. Barnum, chairman of the national committee, did not arrive to-day as expected, but will be here in the morning.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS

Among the passengers on the New York limited express which came to-day was D J Manning, chairman of the New York state committee, accompanied by Edward Cooper and a dozen other Empire state democrats, among whom are two delegates. Mr Manning said he did not come here with music and bluster to nominate Cleveland, but he came as a democrat who believed it to the best interests of the party would be subserved by Mr. Cleveland's nomination. According to Mr. Manning's calculations Cleveland will have forty eight or a majority of the New York delegation.

An informal caucus of the New York delegation will be held here on Saturday night, at which Cleveland's strength will be [illegible] preparatory to their general meeting. Mr. Manning said: "We do not propose to hold this caucus until all the delegates are present. We have no desire to take snap judgment. Mr. Flower has the benefit of the delegates who will work to have him nominated. We have no object on to that. Mr. Flower is a good man, but we do not think he has as fair a show of carrying New York as Mr. Cleveland has."

THE FIELD INTEREST

The California delegation brought word that from fifteen to twenty California democrats will be here Saturday to establish elaborate headquarters and to work in the interest of Justice Field. The California delegates themselves however have stated that they will inaugurate a campaign against Mr Field. Their efforts will be given to secure the nomination of Tilden in spite of his letter, but if that should prove impossible they will work and vote as a unit for Thurman.

The national subcommittee requests that as soon as the various delegates have perfected their organization they will send a list of their chairmen, vice presidents and committeemen to the national committee rooms at the Palmer house, and it is requested that such notification be sent in as early as possible.

IN HONOR OF BUTLER

CHICAGO, July 3.—Representatives of the different labor organizations of this city held a secret meeting to-night and appointed a reception committee to go out to meet General Butler on his way to this city. Arrangements were also made for a monster demonstration on his arrival. It is reported that 10 000 men are expected to be in line.

It is said that Lovejoy threatened [illegible] [illegible] the judge was against him [illegible] as it turned out to be.

LINCOLN AND STANTON

How the Two Men Became Acquainted During a Law Suit.

W M Dickson in Harper's.

In the summer of [illegible] Mr Lincoln made his first visit to Cincinnati. He was original counsel for the defendant in a patent reaper suit pending in the United States circuit court for northern Illinois. The argument of the case was adjourned to Cincinnati, the home of Judge McLean, at his suggestion and for his accommodation.

Mr Lincoln came to the city a few days before the argument took place and remained during his stay at the house of a friend. The case was one of large importance pecuniarily and in the law questions involved. Reverdy Johnson represented the plaintiff. Mr Lincoln had prepared himself with the greatest care; his ambition was up to speak in the case and to measure swords with the renowned lawyer from Baltimore. It was understood between his client and himself before the coming that Mr Harding of Philadelphia was to be associated with him in the case and was to make the [illegible] argument. Mr. Lincoln was a little surprised and annoyed after reaching here to find that his client had also associated with him Mr. Edwin M. Stanton of Pittsburg and a lawyer of our own bar, the reason assigned being that the importance of the case required a man of the experience and power of Mr. Stanton to meet Mr. Johnson. [illegible] lawyer was appointed for [illegible] [illegible] not renumerate [illegible] give [illegible] consultation with him of this additional counsel. He keenly felt it, but acquiesced.

The trial of the case came on. The counsel for defense met each morning for consultation. On one of these occasions one of the counsel moved that only two of them should speak in the case. This matter was also [illegible]. It had always been understood that Mr Harding was to speak to explain the mechanism of the reaper. So this reduced it to either Mr Lincoln or Mr Stanton, [illegible] speaking—which? By the custom of the bar as between counsel of equal standing, and in the absence of any action of the client, the original counsel speaks. By this rule Mr. Lincoln had precedence. Mr Stanton suggested to Mr. Lincoln to make the speech. Mr. Lincoln answered "No, do you speak." Mr. Stanton promptly replied "I will," and, taking up his hat, said he would go and make preparation. Mr Lincoln acquiesced in this, but was deeply grieved and mortified; he took but little more interest in the case though remaining until the conclusion of the trial. He seemed to be greatly depressed and gave evidence of that tendency to melancholy which so marked his character. His parting on leaving the city cannot be forgotten. Cordially shaking the hand of his hostess he said: "You have made my stay here most agreeable and I am a thousand times obliged to you, but in reply to your request for me to come again I must say to you I never expect to be in Cincinnati again. I have nothing against the city, but things have so happened here as to make it undesirable for me ever to return here."

Thus it was that Mr Lincoln and Mr Stanton [illegible]. Little did either then suspect that they were to meet again on a larger theater to become the chief actors in a great historical epoch.

Blaine's First Campaign

Washington letter in San Francisco Bulletin

Now that Blaine is the nominee there is no end to the good stories that are being related of his boyhood. Congressman Pusey of Iowa who went to school with him in Washington county, Pa., tells a good one illustrating the spirit which has not only made him the great statesman he is, but has [illegible] brought him within a step of the White house. At school the [illegible] was called [illegible] in one of the prominent problems which to [illegible] his only [illegible] in the boys among whom he was always a leader physically and intellectually were very fond of making fun of him. Blaine, however, never lost his temper. One day Mr. Pusey conceived the idea of being president of a literary society to which many of the school mates belonged and he made a rapid canvass of the field. There was but one candidate against him who withdrew at once when he heard that Blaine was in the contest. Only one objection could be urged against young Blaine; he was the best debater in the society, the biggest boy and the brightest scholar. Coming to Pusey he disclosed his ambition.

"Why, Neasy," said Pusey, "of course I'll help you, but you can't fill the place."

"Can't fill the place!" exclaimed Blaine, astonished at Pusey's lack of confidence; "why not?"

"Because you don't know anything about parliamentary law. You couldn't preside if this thing depended on it [illegible]."

The young [illegible] flashed, [illegible] enough [illegible] what abashed [illegible] that what Pusey said was probably true. [illegible] suddenly brightening up he said: "I'll fix it all right quick. The fellow is [illegible] now. I'll [illegible] Cushing's Manual to memory to-night."

And Pusey says he did it. Before daylight next morning he knew every important part of Cushing by heart, and with it was an authority on parliamentary law. Those who remember Blaine's remarkable mastery of parliamentary law while speaker of the house and the wonderful facility with which he unraveled the most intricate questions of order will easily credit Pusey's story. His memory of principles, dates, names and facts naturally strong has been cultivated until it is more remarkable than his genius for leadership and command.

The Prince of Wales has gone to Mentone, it is said, not so much for his health as to avoid being condoled with on the death of his lamented brother. He has been surfeited with conventional mourning in Germany because, as one of the prince consort's sons he is a duke of Saxony. At Darmstadt every lady wore a long face.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

The Panic Over the Cholera Epidemic Increasing.

CONSUL MASON DESCRIBES THE SITUATION

France Will Insist Upon Redress from China—The President of Panama Impeached—A Revolution Imminent.

MARSEILLES, July 3.—Three deaths from cholera are reported since last night. At least 6000 inhabitants have fled. Four hundred poor workmen from Toulon have been sent back to that city. The panic is unquestionably increasing. In the face of this, however, physicians and chemists of the city held a meeting and declared the alarm senseless. The rate of mortality at present they aver does not exceed that which is usual at periods of great heat. They express the belief that many deaths which are attributed to cholera are really due to other causes. The municipal authorities decide to forego the customary celebration of July 14.

MARSEILLES, July 3.—Eight new cases of cholera are reported since noon to-day. There have been no further deaths here.

TOULON, July 3.—Seven persons have been attacked with cholera since 8 A M. There have been five deaths since that hour.

CHOLERA IN PARIS

PARIS, July 3.—The prefect of police has ordered all passengers from places where cholera is prevalent to be disinfected. Some Parisian journals assert there were three cases of cholera in Paris yesterday. La Nature denies this, but admits there are isolated cases every summer. It says that the sanitary condition of Paris is good. Travelers who pass into Italy by the Mt. Cenis tunnel are quarantined five days at the frontier.

PARIS, July 3.—Official notice is given on the Bourse to-day that there have been no deaths from cholera in Paris.

FROM CONSUL MASON

WASHINGTON, July [illegible].—The Secretary of State to-day received a cablegram from Consul Mason at Marseilles as follows: "The situation is worse at Toulon, deaths averaging ten daily. There were thirteen yesterday. It is conceded to be Asiatic cholera. The epidemic is stationary at Marseilles. There were six deaths Friday, eight Saturday, four Sunday and five Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Some cases here are apparently Asiatic cholera, the remainder are infantum or sporadic. There are twelve cases in the special hospital. Many thousands have left for the interior. The steamer Burgundy sailed for New York Sunday without any passengers. No emigrants for the United States are reported."

WASHINGTON, July 3.—To avoid the possibility of importing cholera from France into this country through the mails the British government will be required thoroughly to disinfect all French mails passing through England to this country.

FRANCE

FRANCE WILL INSIST UPON REDRESS FROM CHINA

PARIS, July 3.—At a cabinet council to-day Ferry stated that the Chinese foreign board did not disavow the action of the Chinese regular troops at Langson. The board admitted that the Chinese army obeyed orders to retain possession of that city though this was contrary to the second article of the recent Franco-Chinese treaty, which provides for the immediate withdrawal of the Chinese garrison. The Chinese, however, contended that evacuation of the frontier towns was conditional upon signature of a definitive treaty between France and China. China has also refused to recognize the stipulations agreed upon between Li Hung Chang and Captain Fournier for the evacuation of Langson, Cao Bang and Lao Kay between June 6 and June 26.

M. Patenotre, French minister to China, who has been absent to negotiate the treaty with the King of Annam, has been ordered to Pekin immediately to maintain the rights of France. In the event of China refusing redress for the action of her troops at Langson France will immediately declare war. Active preparations have been made for reinforcements to leave France for the east.

IN THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

PARIS, July 3.—The chamber of deputies to-day after [illegible] ing—281 to [illegible] 06—the amendment or proposal to abolish the right of the president to dissolve parliament, adopted a bill for the revision of the constitution by a vote of 414 to 111.

ENGLAND

NEGOTIATIONS REPUDIATED

LONDON, July 3.—A Shanghai correspondent of the Times says that war is threatened between France and China. An influential party in China are intriguing [illegible] prominent officials, such as Tso Tsung Tang, Peng Yu Lin and Marquis Tseng, to [illegible] the recent Franco-Chinese negotiations. The French will probably claim indemnity and demand that the island of Formosa be pledged to secure it.

KHARTOUM CAPTURED

LONDON, July 3.—A dispatch from Cairo says letters from Berber state that Khartoum was captured during the latter part of May without difficulty. There was no massacre.

THE SISTER IN LAW BILL

LONDON, July 3.—At a conference of members of the lords and the commons to-day it was unanimously resolved to introduce the deceased wife's sister bill into the house of lords at once.

BRADLAUGH AND HIS DISPUTED SEAT

LONDON, July 3.—Bradlaugh will next Wednesday [illegible] a meeting of the electors of Northampton whether he shall continue to claim his seat in parliament which he was never allowed to occupy.

AN APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT

LONDON, July 3.—Irish Catholic bishops have asked the [illegible] government to intervene to preserve the rights of British subjects which they claim are threatened by proposed spoliation.

THE STEAMER FARRADAY

LONDON, July 3.—The steamer Farraday laid 200 miles [illegible] eastern shore of the Bennett-Mackay cable [illegible] turned to Queenstown for coal.

SOUTH AMERICA

REVOLUTION IN THE STATE OF PANAMA

PANAMA, July 3.—The supreme court of Panama has impeached Dr. Cervera, president of the state of Panama, for bribery and named General Ruiz acting president. Dr. Cervera refuses to vacate the presidential residence. He is strongly guarded by about [illegible] armed and has fifty police. [illegible] Washington [illegible] President Ruiz demands the building [illegible] General Ruiz [illegible] the Panama garrison. Ruiz has 700 well armed men. [illegible] the fight will be [illegible] hours. French and American interests are wholly unprotected. There is some [illegible] of a revolution. The revolution of [illegible] would be very disastrous for the canal company.

GERMANY

A NEW [illegible] SCHEME

FRANKFORT, July 3.—The Zeitung says a new colonization [illegible] will be supervised and directed by the government [illegible] conformity with the laws for prompt transaction of commerce. The capital is subscribed by private persons. The head office will be at Berlin and there will be branches at Hamburg and Bremen. Prince Bismarck approves of the measure and a bill will be presented in the reichstag at its session to enact the banking laws in conformity with this new plan.

Subsidy Pomeroy

He is a candidate for the presidency duly and in proper form nominated. The platform on which he stands was greeted at the time in the telegraphic dispatches [illegible] American prohibition party [illegible] taken [illegible] He had [illegible] nowhere [illegible] the platform on which he has determinedly set his feet and the [illegible] upon which he rides are one and the same. [illegible] He has been a Kansas United States senator. He came to Kansas in the border ruffian times [illegible] Massachusetts on [illegible] free state man with plenty of money at his back. The first thing he did was to found a town on the Missouri river which they named after the Missouri river [illegible]. It was a venture to which a few of the most desperate southerners who had means and who were extremists in the pro slavery cause of those days planted their several stakes in a like case and a corresponding increase of fortunes. At the collapse of the Lecompton constitution many southern residents of Kansas returned home to their native states leaving any number of mushroom towns in which they were interested to take care of themselves as best they might. Among these were Lecompton, Ozawkie and Doniphan. Lawrence [illegible] with Atchison held their own though [illegible] been [illegible] [illegible] Missouri and Kansas river [illegible] City. General Pomeroy, who was then called took a large stock in [illegible] Lawrence [illegible] and [illegible] in the languid new settlement [illegible] He [illegible] an abundance of money and a bank at Leavenworth, also at his back, soon had control of Atchison, and a suggestion was made to him by Jim Lane and his friends to change the name of the town. General Atchison was the president pro tem of the United States senate, and [illegible] Pomeroy retained the name of the town named after him.

This with more intimate intercourse with his [illegible] neighbors brought about a particularly friendly feeling between all parties concerned. General Stringfellow, a leader of the southern distribution of [illegible] after the Kansas Nebraska measure had [illegible] Atchison secured large property rights and had made himself the terror of the free state men of that period. He was the sanguinary ringleader of the first legislature that convened in the territory of Kansas. It was nothing if not bloodthirsty. At the close of the struggle he settled down with something that for a time at least could hardly be called [illegible] He and General Pomeroy became neighbors and [illegible] friends. He helped the latter to the United States senate [illegible] that career of Pomeroy was not altogether [illegible] integrity what it might have been. He [illegible] politically disposed of him at home. The present [illegible] brought forward by an outside party [illegible] presidential candidate. [illegible] hardly see. The convention that now named him was addressed by him so that it may be supposed that he [illegible] his latest foolishness. It was held in Chicago and he was in the city at the time. [illegible] conveniently at hand to supervise matters [illegible] and is calculated to disturb any one [illegible] that plank of it which declares that civil equality should be granted to all alike, male and female, whites, Indians and Chinamen. Only he has not a word in particular for the freedmen. But that was probably an oversight. His platform is explicit in other respects, and it only remains to be seen which candidates for presidential elector are to be [illegible] in which of the states he proposes to run such.

SEALS AND SEA LIONS.

Difference Between the True Fur Seal and Sea Lion.

Prof. Elliott's report indicates that his study of these interesting creatures was far more thorough, and therefore more valuable than that of the anonymous writer in Chambers' Journal. He tells us that the fur seals which repair to the islands St Paul and St George, of the Pribyloff group are in numbers almost fabulous. They go to land to shed their fur and hair to breed. The seal life of that region is classified under the heads of fur seal sea lion, the hair seal and the walrus. Of the true fur seal the professor goes so far as to say that there is no other animal known to man superior to this from a purely physical point of view and few creatures exhibit so high an order of instinct, approaching even to intelligence. A male in his prime at six or seven years measures 6½ to 7½ feet in length and weighs at least 400 pounds, some reaching 600 pounds. The comparatively small head is almost all occupied by the brain, the large bluish hazel eyes alternately burn with revengeful passionate light, then suddenly change to the tones of tenderness and good nature. When it seeks the land it is in its fattest condition. In from six weeks to three months the superfluous fat is consumed by self-absorption, and the bones show under the shrunken skin. It does not seek the place of its birth, but aims for land without regard to special location. The seal weather is "the foggy, humid, cozy days of summer," and about the 1st of June the males select their positions, after the most extraordinarily brutal contests which man can witness. The females arrive a few weeks later. The body is covered with two coats, the short crisp overhair concealing the soft, elastic fur. In contrast with that of the males the behavior of the females is described as of "exceeding peace and devotion" [illegible]. The females are 4 to 4½ feet long and more shapely than the males. They do not have protracted fasts like the males and have no great masses of blubber to sustain fasting. Soon after they give birth they leave their young on the ground and go to the sea for food, returning perhaps next day or not for several days, in the meantime speeding to distant fishing banks to satisfy their hunger. Fur clad ladies will be interested in this allusion to the female fur seal.

The head and eye are exceedingly beautiful, the expression is really attractive, gentle and intelligent. The large lustrous blue black eyes are humid and soft with the tenderest expression while the small well formed head is poised as gracefully on her neck as can well be imagined. She is the very picture of docility and satisfaction, when she is perched upon some convenient rock and has an opportunity to quietly fan herself, the eye half closed and the head thrown back on her gently swelling shoulders.

Professor Elliott declares that he never saw any driving of young pups into the water by the old ones in order to teach them to swim as certain authors have positively affirmed. The pups blunder into the water awkwardly and become the most expert swimmers only after many discomfitures.

The Alaska Commercial company of San Francisco under its lease from congress of the Fur Seal Islands is allowed to catch 100 000 fur seal per year. At first the company consumed three or four working months to accomplish this but now with the same number of men they do it in less than thirty working days.

On St Paul island alone in 1872 50 days' work of 71 men secured 75 000 sealskins. In 1873 40 days work of 71 men secured a like number. In 1884 [illegible] men in 39 days secured 90 000 skins.

The largest demand for sealskins is in China and it has always been so. The existence of numberless seals on our northwest coast was first made known to Europe by the survivors of Captain Cook's voyage. The industry is now a colossal one in Europe, Asia and America.

Canada

Goldwin Smith in the Contemporary Review.

Canada is cut off from the commercial life of the continent of which she is economically as well as geographically and ethnologically a part, with consequences to her prosperity which no energy on the part of her inhabitants can countervail. She is distinguished by another feature from the colonies in Australia. Though partly British she was originally and still is partly French. There could not be a greater proof of the unfamiliarity of English and [illegible] with the concerns of their trans-atlantic [illegible] than the serene assurance with which even writers on the special subject assume that thanks to the action of a wise policy, New France has ceased to be at all an obstacle to the consolidation of a British North America. It is possible that had the imperial power been out of the way and had the political and social forces of this continent been left to operate without restraint New France might long ago have been assimilated and absorbed. But as it is the fruits of Wolfe's victory have been lost. Instead of being absorbed New France is absorbing. Her population which multiplies almost as rapidly as that of [illegible], and in a measure from the same causes, instead of receding is advancing beyond its boundaries and either thrusting out or swallowing up such British elements as had found place within its confines. The British population of the city of Quebec is reduced to less than [illegible] and we are told that even the eastern townships are becoming more French. At the same time the feeling of French nationality is apparently growing stronger than ever; the connection with old France is more than ever cultivated and old France responds so warmly as to suggest political aspirations on her part. Gallicanism, the quiet and submissive religion of the old regime, which with other characteristics of the France before the revolution had survived in this outlying remnant, has given way to a more stirring spirit of ultramontanism embodied in the Jesuit, who after a mortal struggle with the Gallican Sulpicians has gained the ascendency in the province. In case of war between England and France the heart of new France would be on the side of the mother country and little reliance could be placed on the militia of Quebec.

Eugenie's Courtship

Boston Journal.

There are some curious anecdotes about Napoleon III in the Souvenirs of Compiegne recently published by Sylvanecte, who appears to have been one of the legitimist neighbors of the emperor in the vicinity of Compiegne forest. The same chronicler tells us that Napoleon's fascination for Mademoiselle de Montijo, who afterward became the Empress Eugenie, dated from the time when that sprightly beauty gave him a sharp horsewhipping. The emperor had invited Mademoiselle de Montijo and her mother to Compiegne and showed them much attention at hunting parties. One evening when he but came home late Napoleon so enraged the beauty that she caught up her riding whip and gave it to him over his head and ears. This soon brought about an explanation and in due time came the famous letter in which Napoleon expressed his desire to have Mademoiselle Eugenie to wife—a letter which the mother lost no time in making public and which is now religiously preserved in the archives of the family at Madrid. According to Sylvanecte the future empress was much persecuted by Napoleon before he made her his proposal of marriage, and it is related that on one occasion he was so enraged because she would not grant him a rendezvous—asked for while they were out riding—that he put spurs to his horse and galloped away leaving her to find her way home through the forest as best she could. The poor girl lost her way and did not reach the palace until 9 o'clock in the evening, when all the domestics were thoroughly alarmed for her safety.

Largest Towns in the Soudan

Kassala is in almost the same degree of latitude as Khartoum and lies about half way between that place and Massowah on the Red sea coast. It is described by Mr. James in his "Wild Tribes of the Soudan" as the largest town in the Egyptian Soudan after Khartoum, and he puts its population as estimated at 1 000 besides the considerable garrison which has to be relieved or abandoned. It is a walled town and presents a very animated appearance every morning when crowds of people, men and women, resort to a large open space where they hold a market, sitting many of them under high booths formed of matting supported on poles as some small protection against the fierce rays of the tropical sun. Here they sell various kinds of food, cooked and uncooked, beads, gum, pepper, beads, maize, etc. The province in which Kassala is situated is one of the richest in the Soudan. The country around the town is very fertile and a certain amount of cotton is grown besides onions, which are very large and mild, and somewhat resemble those grown in Spain. Tomatoes also thrive well and various other vegetables are cultivated. For some miles up and down the Gash there are a number of sakiyehs or water wheels of the same kind as those used so much in Egypt. By their means a plentiful supply of water is obtained. Anything would grow here as the soil is rich, but the people are very lazy and unenterprising and all they care about is to produce enough for their absolute necessities. They do not attempt to grow anything new.

Come Down to Ate

New York Sun

An odd story is told of Dr. [illegible] who is the physician in charge of the female wards of one of our best known charitable institutions. One evening about 9 o'clock Mary, a new Irish servant girl, knocked at his door, saying "Doctor, the head nurse wants you to come down to supper." The doctor, swelling in his pride of superiority above nurses, sent the Irish girl to an unnamed place. Half an hour later the head nurse came to his room looking very serious. "Doctor," she said, "No 8 is very bad indeed. I think you ought to see her at once." "Why did you not let me know before?" was the reply. "Why, doctor," said the nurse, "I sent you word by Mary half an hour ago." "The fool!" said the doctor, "she told me to come down to supper." "Why?" said the nurse, "I sent word to come down to a ghost." An inquiry made the whole thing clear. Mary thought it more polite to say "come down to supper" than to say come down to ate.

What Calkins Says of Indiana

Col. W. H. Calkins, the republican candidate for governor of Indiana, said: "Indiana has been and will continue to be a pivotal state. Since the organization of the republican party, with one exception, it has always given its electoral vote to the republican candidate. When the vote was cast for Tilden and Hendricks there was a third party vote which [illegible]. At the present time there [illegible] and I have never seen so much enthusiasm at this stage in the canvass as there is for Blaine and Logan. Lincoln's strength is in a popular vote [illegible]. There are some peculiar features of our voting population. We poll one vote for each 3.87 [illegible] of population. This is the largest vote in proportion to population of any state in the Union. The parties are nearly divided. The indications are more favorable for Republican success in Indiana than in any time in the history of the party."

JEROMIST MEETING

PARIS, July 3.—At a Jeromist meeting last night, Pascal made a violent speech, declaring Prince Victor had forfeited all right to the throne, because he promoted division in the party. A resolution of devotion to the prince was adopted.

POLAR VOYAGES

The Men who Began the Folly that Ended in the Jeannette Tragedy.

Chicago Current, June 28.

In 861 Nadod, a roving pirate, in one of his voyages to the north was cast away on what he supposed to be an immense continent and which he designated by the name of Snowland. About three years later two Swedish navigators visited this land and sailed completely around the supposed continent, proving it to be an island. Having found a great quantity of drift ice collected on the north side in the neighborhood of Cape North, they gave it the name of Iceland, which it still bears. Iceland has an area of 34 991 square miles and at the present day a population of over 70 000 inhabitants. Thorwald, a Norwegian chief, had been banished in exile to Iceland for some murder committed by him in his native land. Soon after his arrival he died, and his son, known as Eric the Rude, or Red, possessing a restless, roving, daring spirit and inheriting his father's temper, killed one of his Icelandic neighbors in a quarrel and was compelled to flee.

In 981 he sailed from his home and directed his course southwest. After a quick run he descried two lofty mountains, the one covered with snow, the other with ice. He called the first "White Shirt," the second "Blue Shirt," and sailing on reached the coast. In the following spring he explored the surrounding country and was delighted with the freshness and verdure of the land in comparison with his own lost home. Contrasting the new found land with the gloomy rocks of Iceland, he gave it the flattering appellation of Greenland, and returning to his former home, circulated the most glowing and exaggerated descriptions of the new country and induced many of his former associates and neighbors to follow him. He sailed back with twenty five vessels, but of these only fourteen reached the newly discovered paradise. The missing eleven were never heard of, and were doubtless lost in one of the terrible storms that sweep over the Arctic seas.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 4, 1884.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

The premonitory pop of the shooting-cracker reminds us that the day for celebrating the signing of the Declaration of Independence is at hand. The reader of this will be surrounded by a noise that cannot be measured by the premonitory pop, and all will go sulphuriously as a marriage serenade, or the arrival of Eurydice in the home of Mr. Pluto.

Since our independence was won with powder, it must be admitted that this powdered celebration is excusable, if not, indeed, the only proper thing. It matters not that we have burned up a few of the cities made possible by the declaration. The same glorious independence that was declared one hundred years ago makes it always possible to rebuild a city, to say nothing of starting several new ones every year. Ever since Columbia was the gem of the ocean she has had powder for breakfast, dinner and supper every Fourth of July, and thus be it ever where freemen shall stand—so to speak. It is astonishing how independent this infernal din of explosives makes one feel. The smallest boy seems to think he is supporting the declaration with a firm "reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, as he pledges to his country his life, fortune, and sacred honor," as the old continentals in their ragged regimentals used to do. The heroism of going through the day with a burned finger is something, in these days of piping peace, when there are thirty-eight states instead of thirteen colonies "absolved from all allegiance to the British crown."

Where was Oregon in 1776? our children may ask, and the answer must be that she was here, just the same, though neither fenced in nor named. Since that date, by a fanciful arrangement of the map, she has been claimed by both England and Spain. It is an almost forgotten fact that one old map has a boundary which gave Spain the Pacific coast so far north as this, including all west of the Missouri river, but there was such a map. The ambitious Spaniards did not stop at California nor did the ambitious descendants of those thirteen colonies stop until the northern and southern boundaries had been so straightened out as to make a much better looking map than the old one with so much Spanish patchwork upon it. Away back in '76 even Delaware was a pretty big state, or colony, and when the British arrived at Sandy Hook, Representative McKean, burning with a desire to have the full vote of his colony recorded, sent an express eighty miles from Philadelphia after Caesar Rodney, who rode all night, and so got in his vote on that hot Fourth of July 108 years ago. Senator Logan, on five minutes' notice, could go from Chicago to Washington in less time; but then there was no Chicago, no telegraph wire, no steam car and, come to think of it, there was no Logan. Given the other conditions, with a Logan, and it is safe to assume that he would have been on hand.

The men who were foremost in attending to matters then were Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston. It was a solid old committee, with no river and harbor bill nor Fitz John Porter bill to take up its time. The committee worked just a month in fixing up the Declaration of Independence, and so well did it do the work that the document is just as good now as it was then. But for the fear that some Old Muggins would laugh at us, we would reprint it right here, for the benefit of democratic politicians, to some of whom it is as totally unknown as the Ten Commandments. Two members of that committee were afterward each elected president, as Blaine will be, and the others were members of the cabinet, as some gentlemen, the mention of whose names would be premature, will be within the twelve month.

Some of the orators who help to keep alive the old sensation to-day, as the star-spangled banner waves in triumph over the land of the free and the home of the Oregonian, may be inspired, in a mood of pure unadulterated Americanism, to think of Blaine, who stands to-day as the American type, forced forward by the people, and they can in this fit of Americanism, go back of the Declaration of Independence to the Declaration of Colonial Rights, wherein it was declared that "by emigration to America by their ancestors they never lost any of their rights, and that their descendants were entitled to the exercise of every right." They not only never lost any of their rights, but they found many which they had never enjoyed before and now one reason why many of our foreign-born citizens admire and will vote for Blaine is that he seems to them to stand for American rights everywhere. They would like to see him waving the American flag from the dome of the White house while the Marine band played "Yankee Doodle," "Erin Go, Bragh," "Wacht am Rhein" and the "Marseillaise" without even stopping for an American mixed drink, and they all believe he is the man who can do it.

The Fourth of July and all its reminiscent noise finds a response in the heart of every one of us, and may it ever be so. Flights of oratory are in order to-day. Let the speakers soar in the cerulean blue and incidentally paint the republican candidate red, while waving handkerchiefs fill in the white. It is the day for all that is emblematic, to the verge of the hyperbolic, and as we look at our banner we will imagine that she makes tyranny tremble, hoping that tyranny is a long way off, trembling all by herself, beyond the reach of our army and navy forever—

To-day the eagle will scream from the Pacific ocean to Augusta, Maine, and to-night, through the rocket's red glare, as bombs are bursting in air, it will give proof that young America is alive and at the bottom of it all.

The anti-monopoly portion of the democratic party are dissatisfied with the defeat of Congressman Charles A. Sumner for renomination in the fourth district of California, and the nomination of the "school board dude, R. P. Hastings." They condemn it as the work of the railroad and telegraph monopolists, and have formally called upon the anti-monopoly district convention to nominate a candidate who will be acceptable to them. Mr. Sumner has proposed several measures in congress which would be of great benefit not only to his constituents but to the country at large if they were adopted, and if the democrats were earnestly in favor of passing laws which would help the country they ought to support such men in office as Mr. Sumner.

Matthew Morgan's Sons, who have recently failed in New York, owned several million of Denver and Rio Grande railroad securities, which they purchased at prices that ranged as high as 112 cents on the dollar. The picturesque trash is now worth 7½ cents on the dollar. Its total value now scarcely exceeds half the amount of the premium which they paid when they bought it.

Mr. Keifer says that he will retire from public life because "his close attention to his public duties has deprived him of the opportunity to attend to his private affairs." The real reason is that the people of his congressional district have no further use for a man of his character.

The comical rival of Puck, known as The Judge, is out this week with a cartoon representing Blaine, Garfield, Lincoln and Washington as tatooed men, all standing up in a row. This is the New York Tribune's idea, that these men are all alike in character.

The Boston papers insist that the people there are doing a good business, their "financial institutions are managed in a safe and conservative fashion," and they tranquilly await the return of a "brisker trade and more general prosperity."

Poor Tilden! After finally crawling in his hole he has ex-Governor Palmer of Illinois getting up in the Illinois convention and yelling, "Lazarus, come forth!"

STANDING ON THE PLATFORM.

The Minneapolis Tribune wanted the senate to refuse to confirm the nomination of Colonel Pierce of Illinois as governor of Dakota, because the appointment was in violation of the seventeenth resolution in the platform adopted at Chicago, which reads as follows: "Resolved, That the appointment by the president to offices in the territories should be made from the bona fide citizens and residents of the territories wherein they are to serve." It thinks that a vote for his confirmation would be public announcement that republican national platforms are simply quadrennial claptrap, without meaning, without sincerity, and undeserving of regard even among the men who frame them. And it goes to the absurd length of saying that Colonel Pierce ought to decline an honor which he can only accept at the sacrifice of a sound principle in government, and at the expense of his party's consistency."

If our Tribune brother adheres to this idea of party loyalty he will find very little congenial companionship among republicans. The failure of Senator Ingalls in the pension debate to force his colleagues into enacting the platform utterances of a political convention into national laws seems to have escaped the Tribune's notice. This form of autocratic and impudent republicanism was bravely resisted by one of the most eminent members of the party, who, as secretary of the treasury, won by his service to the nation, some of the brightest of the laurels of his party. Senator Edmunds and Senator Hawley also publicly avowed on that occasion what Mr. Ingalls sneeringly charged, that party platforms are not "binding upon the conscience nor upon the political action of those who may be called upon to vote upon the question." President Arthur, according to the Tribune, has "deliberately spit upon the platform within twenty days after its adoption. The senate has confirmed Colonel Pierce, and now the last hope of the Tribune rests with him. If the colonel should accept this appointment he will be as bad as the rest, and the Tribune will be compelled to take up the sad refrain with which Senator Ingalls closed his tirade, that "If the declarations referred to were to be declared by those in authority not to be binding, then it would be well for party managers to put up a notice, as the railroad managers did, that 'passengers are not allowed to stand on the platform.'"

But seriously there is altogether too much of a captious spirit exhibited by many republicans. The republican party is now composed of two elements, broadly speaking, which are not harmonious, and can be held together and made to work together only through the exercise of a fair amount of patience and toleration. One large class of republicans recognize public patriotism as of higher authority than party loyalty, while on the other hand there is another large class who fail to recognize, either in the national welfare or in the individual conscience an authority higher than the party convention. If this latter class persists in attempting to bring the other into line by the party whip, with its various lashes of patronage, or threats or scare, they will not only fail of that purpose, but make a nuisance of themselves. The impudence of Senator Ingalls in threatening Senator Sherman with exclusion from the party, is only equaled by the impatience of the Minneapolis Tribune in attempting to impeach the loyalty of the president. If this foolishness continues we may expect to see Hamlet read out of the play by the gravedigger.

The recent discussion of the telegraph business has resulted in great good to the country. No monopoly can long withstand exposure. It has been shown that the rates are too high, because the public has been paying the Western Union enough for the use of their wires to enable the company to declare dividends on about $55,000,000 of watered stock. A year ago the president of this company declared that no company could do business at the rate of a cent and a half a word. To-day his company have reduced night rates to that figure. Since the agitation of the subject began, about a year ago, rates for press dispatches from Chicago to California have fallen from three cents a word to three-fourths of a cent. The vast improvements in the machinery of telegraphy have reduced the actual cost of transmitting messages, and the company has been compelled by the force of public opinion in part, but chiefly by competition and the prospects of a postal telegraph, to reduce their rates. The need of government control to prevent a continuance of monopoly has taken a strong hold of the public mind, and there is little doubt the government will soon undertake to do the business, either under the contract system or by the purchase of existing lines.

---

The senate at present is composed of thirty eight republicans, thirty six democrats and the Virginia senators, who are now supposed to be republicans, Mahone's term expiring in 1887 and Riddleberger's in 1889. In five states—Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland and Ohio, democratic successors to the incumbents have been chosen. Six more democrats, as now, will doubtless be elected by the legislatures of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina. The seven remaining states in which senators are to be chosen send at present five republicans and two democrats. These states are Connecticut, New York, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Nevada and California. Messrs. Voorhees and Farley are the democrats coming from Indiana and California. There is a fair chance of gaining a senator in Indiana, but California has been districted so ingeniously that a republican majority for president would by no means insure a majority in the legislature. The democrats have ninety-two members of the present legislature and the republicans but twenty-eight. New York will be debatable ground.

A number of Chinese farmers in Merced county, California, have begun to cultivate the opium-yielding poppy, and are making a success of it. This probability of financial success is largely owing to the government's "incidental morality," which by seeking to lay so heavy a duty on opium as to prevent its importation, has succeeded in making it worth while to develop a poppy crop here. From the point of view of the economist, home-raised opium may be preferable to foreign opium, but if a native crop is going to induce a wider abusive use of the drug than is even now existing, it will be a sorry day when California becomes a poppy-growing state.

Miss Sarah T. Bosworth wants $10,000 from the steamship company to pay for breaking one of her legs while being taken off the Queen of the Pacific in a lifeboat last September. We hope Sarah will get it, but cannot help thinking of the temptation to the company, should she ever again be in a similar predicament, to let her take her chances by swimming. They will be afraid to handle brittle passengers who are rescued only to bring suit.

Judge Field has developed a strong following in New York. He seems to have friends everywhere excepting among his California fellow-citizens. Cleveland is strong only in his own state—and not very strong there.

Jones of the New York Times has gone to Europe, where he will probably feel more at home during the exciting time his old friends are having in carrying the election for Blaine.

Had a Better Thing.

Wall Street News.

After wiping off his mouth and carefully placing the glass on the marble counter, he whispered to the druggist:

"Very good ginger ale that is."

"Yes, sir."

"I can sell you a receipt to make three cents' worth of that fill a five-cent glass."

"Don't want it, sir."

"Maybe you have a better thing?"

"I have, sir. I can make ten cents' worth of cayenne pepper take the place of six shillings' worth of ginger."

The thirsty traveler took lemonade next time.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Southern Oregon.

Jacksonville Sentinel: F. H. Lamb, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company for this division, was in town yesterday, accompanied by his wife. He is making a tour of inspection of the lines in his section with the view of putting them in good repair for winter use.

Eastern Oregon.

Andrew Bolli of Indian valley left his home one evening last week for the purpose of going into his wheat field to watch for some deer that had been visiting his farm and doing some damage. Soon after he left the house a thunder storm came on. He did not return, and his mother becoming anxious, search was instituted and the dead bodies of man and horse were found about 300 yards from the house, but not until the evening following his departure. There is no doubt but that a thunderbolt killed the unfortunate man, for his hat was split down the center, his coat was rent down the back, his hair and eyebrows singed off, his head was crushed to pieces, and this without any visible fracture of the skin. The horse was apparently killed as instantaneous as its rider. The blanket was burned and both bodies when found were lying very close together.

Washington Territory.

There are a great many idle men at Spokane Falls, according to the Chronicle, who appear to be waiting for something to turn up.

Hon. E. C. Ferguson, late speaker of the territorial house of representatives, has been appointed commissioner for Washington territory to the cotton exposition at New Orleans, and A. P. Sharpstein has been appointed alternate.

The Business Men's Association of Seattle have placed in nomination the following municipal ticket: Mayor, John Leary; city attorney, J. [illegible]; chief of police, J. H. Woolery; city assessor, Frank Seidel. Councilmen—First ward, W. A. Harrington, Thomas Clancy and Franklin Matthias; second ward, H. L. Yesler, Amos Brown and James F. McNaught; third ward, B. F. Day, Otto Ranke and George W. Hall.

Says a Walla Walla exchange: Intelligence of the death at Lewiston on the 27th of June of William A. Ball was received here yesterday. Mr. Ball was a native of Missouri, and came from California to Walla Walla in 1858. He remained here until a few years ago, when he went to Colorado, where he was partially paralyzed. Three or four years ago he moved to Lewiston, where he resided with a nephew. Mr. Ball was a man of great force of character, a leader of men, who, prior to his affliction, exerted a powerful influence in the community in which he lived. He was the uncle of Mrs. Hugh Taylor of Walla Walla, and Mrs. Charles Clark of Dayton.

A few days ago a party of men were engaged in digging a well on J. L. Dougherty's place, about six miles west of Spokane Falls, and needing some stone they repaired to one of the natural rock piles that abound in this part of the country and commenced gathering the required material. Only a few loose stones were removed when the workmen were startled by discovering the remains of a human being. It is unnecessary to add that they found it convenient afterwards to pick rock from an entirely different locality. It was evident from the brief view taken of the body that it had been stored away for some time, and it is possible it may be an Indian plant. Deputy Sheriff Lane C. C. Ham has been notified of the discovery, and will make an inspection of the case in a short time.

THE NARROW GAUGE LEASE.

PORTLAND, July 2, 1884.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

As shown in my former letter, the report of the directors of the Narrow Gauge road disproves the assertion that Mr. Benjamin gave an opinion upon the leasing powers of the companies. I may add that, the "settling of the draft," did not necessarily involve the question of charter powers any more than the drafting of a mortgage necessarily involves the question of title to the premises mortgaged. The draft was settled in June. Mr. Hughes was cabled in September following to know if a lease could be made without legislative sanction.

Your correspondent overlooks the fact that the terms of the incorporating law, whether general or special, determine the powers granted. It seems to be assumed in support of the lease that the enumeration of the objects of the corporation as contained in the articles adopted by itself determines the authority of the corporation—that the laws of Oregon authorized the assumption of such powers as the incorporating company may see fit to enumerate. The general incorporation law of Oregon does not authorize the incorporation of a company to make and take leases, and the limit of the powers of foreign companies doing business in Oregon are determined by the laws of Oregon.

But it is said there is a rumor that the O. R. & N. Company offers to lease its line to the Northern Pacific, but does this rumor decide the legal question? The existing lease, and not the rumored one, is the subject of serious concern to the Dundee people.

I answered as I thought it deserved, the charge that the suggestion of what was dishonorable in business was an American characteristic. In this connection I would say that the stockholders of a corporation have rights that are beyond the control of the directors. The latter are merely the agents of the stockholders, with prescribed powers. The limit of their authority is made a public record that all the world may know what it is. It has never been held in law or morals that an agent acting without the scope of his authority can bind the principal, and the principle applies with greater force when the authority of the agent is prescribed by a public law.

From the great number and uniformity of English cases in which the doctrine of ultra vires is applied in setting upon corporation contracts, it is strange that the men of Dundee are either surprised or shocked to find their lease questioned. The doctrine contended for is not characteristically American. It is deeply rooted in England, and it derives its strength in America from the authority of English courts. The house of lords has laid down the doctrine broadly that "a contract not within the scope of the powers conferred on the corporation cannot be made valid by the assent of every one of the shareholders," and that "it cannot by any partial performance become the foundation of a right." If, upon the assumption of the management of the business of the O. R. & N. company Mr. Coolidge found a contract beyond the powers of the corporation to make and one forbidden by public policy, injuriously affecting the interests of the stockholders, it was his duty, in the language of the supreme court of the United States, "to rescind or abandon it at the earliest moment."

After all, it is just possible that the lessor company's anxiety in the premises is not confined to the matter of rent. It may dimly discern the spectre of the Dayton, Sheridan and Grande Ronde railway company, threatening its title to that part of its road which was acquired by purchase.

Brother Gardner's Fourth of July Observations

Detroit Free Press.

"Dis club has concluded not to celebrate de Fo'th of July," remarked Brother Gardner as the meeting opened. "One reason am bekase we am all patriots every day in de week, an' anoder reason am dat de lemonade of dis kentry has so degenerated in dese days dat a true patriot has no bizness wid de stuff. We could whoop an' hurrah an' eat cokernuts an' wave flags an' send up sky-rockets, but on de nex' day we'd have to pay cash for mutton jist de same, an' our old clothes would look jist as old, an' de landlord would come aroun' fur de back rent jist as hard as if de Declaration of Independence had neber bin writ.

"Doan' be too patriotic. In case of war you will be suspected of fishin' fur guv'ment contracts; in case of peace you will be called a blowhard an' a demagogue.

"Lub your kentry but doan' let the kentry git ahead of you.

"Let your voice be raised fur peace, but doan' pay any revenue tax you kin git out of.

"Be proud of our republic, but remember dat republics can beat any monarchy at corrupshun.

"Respect our laws, but remember dat $500 and a good lawyer will cl'ar a murderer nine times out of ten.

"Reverence the constitution, but remember dat any statesman kin interpret it to read any way or mean anything.

"Let your heart swell wid pride as you remember dat you are an American, but doan' forgit to apply to de English consul if you want perteckshun when away from home.

"Let us now purceed to transact sich bizness of unusual importance as may come befo' de meetin'."

Over-Production of Palaces.

American Architect.

During the feverish speculation of 1881 and 1882 an immense number of costly and splendid mansions were erected in the new quarters of Paris, in anticipation of a demand from the wealthy foreigners who were imagined to be flocking to the city. After the houses were built it was discovered that the increase in the population, although large, was not due to the advent of 60,000 millionaires, but to the arrival of about 50,000 needy persons, and perhaps 250 respectable people, able to earn enough to keep themselves from want; with 50 persons, more or less, able to afford the cost of the luxury prepared for them, and the consequence of the misapprehension as to the character of the immigration has been that the fifty millionaire-new comers find themselves invited to choose among a bewildering diversity of palaces, furnished with all the modern luxuries, and surrounded with conservatories, stables, carriage houses and the other superfluities which belong to great wealth. Whole streets between the Parc Monceaux and the Trocadero are lined with these costly structures, most of them empty, some streets not having a single inhabitant; and establishments suitable for princes may be hired in the fashionable quarter of Paris for rents which would be called modest for a good dwelling house in New York. Notwithstanding this over production of palaces, the market for small tenements is but scantily supplied, and those who cannot think of affording a luxurious habitation at a very low price are compelled to pay a high price for lodgings of very inferior character.

Peter Cooper's Newspaper Investment.

At the meeting of the representatives of the greenbackers in Indianapolis, Walter H. Shupe, of New York, gave an interesting piece of unwritten history of the Peter Cooper campaign of 1876. He was then editing the Advocate, the organ of the national party, whose subscription price was $1 per annum. Mr. Shupe assured Mr. Cooper that with a fund of from $50,000 to $100,000 the paper could be made to reach 3,000,000 of people by November. Mr. Cooper thought over the matter, and finally placed $100,000 to the credit of the Advocate in a New York bank, and the price of the paper was reduced to 25 cents. With every mail sent out the fund in the bank grew less. By the last of September it was exhausted and the circulation was not quite 200,000. Then Mr. Shupe revealed his embarrassment to the philanthropist, whose family interfered and prevented him from contributing only $5000 more, "and so I failed," concluded the editor. "Be careful and think twice before you reduce the price of your paper. A 25 cent organ may obtain a circulation, but it won't pay." This is probably the first information the country has ever had that Peter Cooper, directly or indirectly, spent $105,000 in the effort to be elected president.

The White Woman.

Ixtaccihuatl, which, next to Popocatapetl, is the highest Volcano in Mexico, is universally called the "White Woman" in the land of the Montezumas. Its shape, as viewed from Popocatapetl, some 150 miles away, is suggestive of a dead giantess robed for burial, the white shroud showing the contour of the breast and limbs. The face is perfect in outline, and long hair seems to stream in silvery locks from the snowy forehead, down over the sides of the bier. Her feet are turned toward Popocatapetl, and between them lies a line of low hills, brown and treeless.

This is how Sir James Stephen defines mankind: "A stupid, ignorant, half beast of a creature, the most distinguished specimens of which have passed their lives in chasing chimeras, and believing and forcing others to believe in fairy tales about them—a creature made up mostly of units, of which a majority cannot even read, while only a small minority have the time, or the means, or the ability to devote any considerable part of their thoughts to anything but daily labor."

The Indian Slayers.—Henry Barnhart ... Anderson, the young men acquitted at ... on the charge of murdering an Indian constable on the ... reservation, were brought down yesterday by Deputy U. S. Marshal Charles Erlson. They waived examination and with the consent of U. S. District Attorney Watson were held to answer the charge ... bonds of $5000 each, which ... gave. The complaint upon which they were arrested was sworn out by the district attorney on a telegram from Indian Agent Somerville, before the ... had been held to answer by a justice of the peace at Pendleton. Should ... be found by the United States grand jury against Barnhart and Anderson, ... there is ... doubt that this will be the ... two important questions will be presented by the ... First they will claim that congress had no constitutional authority to pass the law of 1885 conferring upon the United States courts the right to try cases of crime committed by white men on the person or property of an Indian or of an Indian upon a white man within the limits of Indian country. Judges Sawyer and Deady have in several cases pronounced the law valid, notably in the case of ... vs. Brewer ... charged with ... an Indian ... vs. Sheriff Martin of Umatilla county for resisting the service of a warrant ... court and ... vs. Ah ... they will set up a plea that the Umatilla reservation is not within the ... federal ... or under the exclusive control of the United States and that the reservation is not an Indian country within the meaning of the law providing ... It is probable that the case will go to the United States supreme court upon ... and perhaps upon both points. It is claimed by the ... that the recent trial of the prisoners at Pendleton was for a ... of the statutes of Oregon ... that ... a man for violating a United States statute and that their acquittal has no bearing on the question of whether they violated the United States law. They appear before the United States ... not ... and ... they had never been arrested or tried by the state court.

Evidence Considered Insufficient.—Joseph Bergman had an examination in Justice Hymes's court yesterday on a charge of outrage in assault preferred by A. Syerling of Albina. Mrs. Syerling testified that the defendant had visited her residence several times and had made improper advances to her and on one occasion had used ... in trying to accomplish his aim. The defendant showed that he had been obliged to sue Syerling to collect a bill and that after this the charge had been made and claimed that the whole business was trumped up against him because he had attempted to collect his just due. Justice Hymes was of the opinion that if there had been any ground for the charge the woman would have told her husband at once and not waited till he had been sued for his bill; but as it was there was not sufficient testimony to warrant the defendant being held he was discharged.

To Arrive from Chicago.—Rev. C. H. Taintor, district secretary of the American Congregational Union with headquarters in Chicago, will arrive in this city early next week and be in attendance at the general association of Congregational churches of Oregon and Washington which meets with the First Congregational church next Thursday, July 10. It will be the first time any of the prominent officers of this body has visited the northwest ... and it is to be hoped that he will receive a favorable impression of the people and their disposition to ... in the special work—that of building churches and parsonages. The organization he represents has used over $500,000 for the year 1884, and the prospects are reasonably good for its doing ... need.

Hebrew Services.—Rev. Dr. ... Bloch will by the ... of the trustees of the Beth Israel congregation prolong his visit to this city for one week, for the purpose of officiating again next Sabbath. Services will be held as follows: this evening at ... a lecture—"A Genesis of Religion." Saturday morning at 10 o'clock sermon, "The Teacher." The public is most respectfully invited to attend.

The Kalama Branch.—Work on getting in running order the line between Portland and a point opposite Kalama has been commenced in earnest. Part of the line has been ballasted, stations and ... and ... have been built and ... the ... charge ... that the new ferry ... will be running regularly by the first of next month.

FRI[illegible] MORNING, JULY 4 1884

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, July 3.

The produce lines during the week have moved slowly without showing marked fluctuation in values. Altogether the trade is only seasonable. The weather has been variable, and some rain has fallen. Rainfall for June was 1.34.

Railway stocks fell off early in the week, recovering toward the last and showing very little change for the entire week.

Overland receipts include 272 cs lemons, 5 bbls dried currants, 50 cs starch, 25 cs sardines, 25 cs rye, 1 cs candy, 9 cs cigars, 74 pkgs tobacco.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours, 310 ctls wheat, 206 ctls oats, 208 ctls bran, 20 sks potatoes, 6675 lbs wool, 1455 lbs hides, 76 cs eggs, 3 bxs fruit, 25 pkgs butter, 400 bbls lime. Also 2040 ctls wheat, 160 bbls flour, 72,584 lbs wool from the eastern section.

Receipts for the week aggregate 10,854 ctls wheat, 2158 bbls flour, 987 ctls oats, 208 ctls bran, 160 ctls millstuff, 125 sks potatoes, 562,412 lbs wool, 27 149 lbs hides, 101 pkgs butter, 427 cs eggs, 400 sks flax seed, 130 bxs fruit, 731 bbls lime.

FREIGHTS.—The Aberystwith Castle has filled up with 22,069 cs salmon and sailed. None of the expected vessels have put in an appearance, yet the number near at hand is small, consisting of the Navesink, Kirkwood and Belle of Oregon, the second alone being fully due at this date. The Kirkwood is making a long passage, but no serious apprehension is felt for her safety. On spot there has been no inquiry for vessels, nor have they been forced. In futures there is certainly very little doing, and nothing is made public. The last additions are said to come seeking. Quotations are purely nominal and cannot be advanced over last rates paid. Owners are firm for much better prices for fall loading, and at least 55s would be required to secure iron. The total amount of tonnage in sight at this time is 32,990 tons, against 77,131 tons at this time last year. Then we had 18,044 tons in river, of which 4975 was under charter, and [illegible] on the way. In the face of an expected large crop this shortage is all the more apparent and greatly strengthens the position of owners. No doubt there are vessels headed this way not on the lists, but the number cannot materially alter the situation. Fewer vessels are bound this way in cargoes and this coast must draw ballast vessels from the South American and Australian ports. Tonnage is securing good rates to Rio, and as that port now offers little outward ships must leave in ballast. Altogether the situation is one decidedly favorable to the owner and greatly against home wheat values.

WHEAT—On spot business has been confined to the purchase of a few small lots of valley for milling at $1 40@1 42½. Walla Walla is neglected and not quotable over $1 30. Interior holders are still offering some but shippers are not disposed to take hold even at concessions. The Red Cross filled up to-day and one shipper has secured room for a clean up. This will close the season's movement as August begins the new crop year. Growing crops are everywhere favorable, late showers and cool weather materially assisting spring sown valley and fall sown eastern. California is harvesting a crop that will furnish a million and a half tons for export. We should have 250,000 tons for export at the inside. Values generally are disappointing, California cargoes being quoted 7s 6d below last year. New York, Chicago and coast markets are in weak tone, Chicago for August being 85¾ cents, against $1 04¼ at this time last July. Other home markets are relatively as low, and at the present time there is nothing on which to base expectations of a recovery. On the contrary new wheat promises to open even lower in this market.

The quantity of Pacific coast wheat afloat is now 3,287,396 centals, and flour 469,038 barrels, of which 403,112 centals wheat and 154,356 barrels flour was cleared from the Columbia river.

The aggregate supply of wheat in sight in the United States (exclusive of California and Oregon) and Canada is now down to 15,814,800 bushels, while that of corn is up to 8,450,800 bushels, against the preceding weekly exhibit of 16,565,659 wheat and 7,933,650 corn, and a year ago of 20,619,030 wheat and 14,924,550 corn.

FLOUR—The market enjoys only a jobbing trade, and this is active for the season. A good call is had from lower river and northern points. Standards are steadily held at $4 75. Outside brands are in lessened offering, yet more than meeting the request at $4@4 50.

MILLSTUFF—Jobbing values show no change. Dealers are easily supplied with all sorts, and the market exhibits nothing of new interest. We quote jobbing prices: Bran $14@16; shorts $20; middlings $25; chop $22 50. Ground barley weak at $24@26. Oil meal $35.

OATS—Offerings have fully met requirements, in fact exceeded them, for off grades are difficult to sell at more than the usual concessions. In extreme instances an advance on 47½ cents was had for choice lots, but they sold above the market. A fair to good quality of feed is held at 47@47½c, while inferior lots are irregular and hard to sell. The request has been shortened by the smallness of the outside demand and cheapness of other feed.

POTATOES—Choice old come in generally poor condition, and few dealers offer over 1 cent. New are cheaper and in more general use, selling at 1½c. Some new Oregon have shown up, but are not in open market. California are firm at the price named.

ONIONS—Cheapened first cost has reduced selling price of California to 1¾c, and a fair movement is had.

VEGETABLES—Cabbage sells at 2½c, and cauliflower at $1 25. Turnips and carrots selling at 1½c with small movement. Other vegetables from California are in market on steamer days.

GREEN FRUIT—Peaches have advanced to $1 75, the quality having improved. New apples selling at $2 50 and firm for choice. Small fruits and berries firm and not so plenty. Cherries 7c, currants 5c, gooseberries 2½c, strawberries 10c. Apricots irregular at $1@1 25.

TROPICAL FRUITS—Oranges in better request and a good quality brings $5. A car load of lemons via New York enjoyed bad treatment east of St. Paul and caused some loss to the shipper. This side of St. Paul they came by passenger train. Selling at $10 50. Limes $1 25 per 100. Bananas down to $3 75.

BUTTER—Less local in stock, and good to choice brings 20@25c. California roll 25c, eastern 22½@25c.

POULTRY.—Market for chickens demoralized and old sold down to $4 this morning. Supplies are large and the request only fair. Quote young $2@3, old $4@4 50. Ducks offering at $7@9. Turkeys and geese not wanted.

EGGS.—The market has steadily gained strength, while not showing any decided advance. We quote 22½@25c, choice fresh selling at 25c.

HIDES, ETC.—Lower markets elsewhere lowers the quotations for hides. Dry, usual selection, command 15@16c, green 7@8c. Tallow dull at 5½@6c. Furs and skins quiet but steady and we quote: Dark beaver $2@3 25 per lb; valley summer deerskins 27½c, do winter do, 25c, eastern Oregon summer do, 21½c, do winter do 18c per lb; elk skins 12½c per pound. The following sell by the skin: Black bear $10@[illegible], brown do 50c@$4, dark fisher $2 50@6, pale do 50c@$1; silver fox $5@25, cross do $2@5, red do 75c@$1 50; lynx 37½@50c; prime dark marten, [illegible]; dark mink 10@40c; land otter $1 50@5 50; wolf 37½@50c.

CHEESE—Best local brings 16 cents. Fair to good outside lots 12½@14c.

DRIED FRUITS—Local jobbing quotations are: Sundried apples 9@10c; factory apples in boxes 13@14c; eastern in barrels 8¼c; pears sliced and boxed 15c; plums sundried 13@15c; boxed 16c; peaches 12@14c; Oregon prunes 12c; eastern and others 10@12c; figs 9c; raisins $1 75@2 per full box.

PROVISIONS—Only the best command full prices. Local jobbing values are: Bacon 11½@12½c; best local hams 16@17c; country hams 13@14c, shoulders 8@9c; eastern hams 16@17c; shoulders and poor cuts of other meats are in slow sale. A fair quality of lard in tins sells at 12c, and in kegs at 11@12c; best local in tins 13@13½c; eastern in small tins 13@13½c.

HAY—Remaining stocks of old being rushed on the market and values are down to $10@12. Wild neglected and cheap. Very little loose offered. A few days of sunshine will send in new.

HOPS—There is a lull in the excitement regarding futures, buyers having made a pause and growers maintaining their ground, if not advancing pretensions. Reports are current of contracts having been made at 20@22 cents at Puyallup.

New York latest mail dates report: Values have further advanced under a continued good demand, but business is somewhat restricted by light offerings and extreme views of holders. Shippers and brewers are both free buyers where desirable parcels can be secured. We quote choice Pacific coast, 30@35c.

WOOL—Our remarks of last Thursday regarding the general situation reflect that of to-day. A light business is being done. Latest sales in this line are [illegible] of eastern Oregon at 15½, 17 and 18 cents, the latter figure being the very extreme. Desirable grades only are taken up, and the accumulation of poorer is consequently large. The general run of valley coming in is not up to the usual standard; eastern Oregon also coarser and heavier. Few sales of valley are reported, and these at 14@17 cents. Buyers include the local mills and speculators, the former receiving a lot of greasy California for mixture. As all along noted the movement is restricted by low values and small request. One eastern Oregon grower secured 16½c for this year's clip, against 17½c last year, which is rather better than most have done. The quality from this section shows a gratifying improvement. At San Francisco the outside quotation has been lowered one cent in the week. We are glad to note the partial conversion of a Philadelphia firm to the correct idea that it is cheaper for the grower east of the mountains to ship his wool through Portland. In a late circular the firm almost advise this, and give the rate from Portland to Philadelphia at $1 60 per 100 lbs for compressed bales. Late shipments eastward have included large lots for Hartford, which is in the manufacturing center of Massachusetts. Very little is now going to San Francisco.

New York mail dates report: The condition of trade in this staple continues disappointing, and the business transacted since our last issue has been of limited proportions with the market ruling dull and to a great extent nominal. The light requirements of manufacturers, owing to the slow distribution of their output has a depressing effect, and with holders showing some anxiety to realize, the advantage is on the side of consumers. No new features have been developed at primary sources, the demand continuing exceedingly light with concessions necessary to make sales.

The Merchandise Markets.

The generally cautious manner in which our wholesalers are compelled to do business necessarily restricts the movement, and everything is done in a hand to mouth manner. The necessity for this course is only too painfully apparent. The dullness is far from altogether local in its character. Not a single trade center in the country is free from the same influences. And this must continue until matters so shape themselves as to allow new confidence by removing present obstacles and furnishing grounds for a general renewal of demands for our agricultural products. As soon as the wheat trade swings freely the recovery will commence. City merchants have squared a good part of their back accounts by wool sales, but not nearly as many as expected, owing to the dull market and low values of that product.

The following report of the San Francisco merchandise market is condensed from the Commercial News. Teas are without change in price. The old stock is gradually being worked off, and local receipts of new crop are unusually light. Of the 25,434 packages just to hand by the San Pablo from Hong Kong, only 2130 packages are destined for this port, the balance goes forward by rail to the east. Latest advices from New York report choice new teas in demand at full figures, the range being from 30 to 45c. Eastern speculators, who are large holders of old teas, are now forcing sales, and consequently prices rule low, the rates quoted being from 17 to 27c for ordinary grades. Coffee receipts have been liberal and the demand fair. Interior stocks are reported light, but purchases are generally limited as to quantity. Shipments overland are only moderate. Refined sugars are steady as to prices, which are very low and the consumption heavy. The Mariposa brought 33,110 bags Island for the refinery and 1420 for the city. Sales of 500 bags Island are reported at 5 [illegible]c. China rice is in large stock, the market dull and prices weak, favoring the buyer. The San Pablo, from Hong Kong 23d inst, brought 21,115 bags. The Mariposa, from Honolulu 23d inst, brought 1882 bags island rice, of which 500 bags are reported sold at 4¾c, net cash, for local consumption and the balance for shipment overland. There is no island rice in first hands, and a report of prospective short crop tends to give firmness to the market. Spices are firm, and prices rule high. Tinplate is unchanged in price, but the tone of the market is firm, and if importations should be delayed an advanced rate would be demanded. Block tin is dull. Chemicals are steady at rates quoted. Castor oil is firm at the late advance, and the market for linseed oil is reported strong with prospect of an advance. The cargo of new codfish per the Czar, which was placed on the market last week, has moved off quite freely and will soon have passed entirely out of first hands. Miscellaneous case goods are without material change and quotations are merely nominal.

BEANS—Market slow. Quote small whites [illegible]; bayos 5½c; pinks 3c; butter 4½c.

COFFEE—Good local call. Imports [illegible] arrival from New York. Quote Costa Rica, 11½@11¾c; Salvador and Guatemala, 11½@12½c; best Java, 20c.

PICKLES—Kegs quoted at $1 17½@1 37½.

CANNED GOODS—Stocks irregular and call a low. Quote tomatoes $[illegible] for 2½s and $4 25 for gallons; corn $1 60, pie peaches $2@2 25, table peaches $2 50@2 75, assorted pie fruits 2½s, $1 [illegible]@1 75, gallons $4 25, assorted table fruits $2 50.

COAL OIL—Quote 17@26c as to brand. Market slow.

SALT—Market firm. Liverpool fine, $17, $20 and $22 50; coast, half ground, $9 50@10 50.

SUGAR—Quote jobbing prices (A) patent cube, 9¾c; (A) crushed, 9¾c; dry granulated, 9⅛c; golden C, 8c; extra golden C, 8¼c; extra powdered, 10c; D, 7c. Quotations are for barrels.

GRAIN BAGS—San Francisco market is lower and irregular, some holders becoming anxious to realize fearing the expected demand has been largely overestimated. In the local market there has been little doing, and we quote $7 37½@7 50 for cash only.

SALMON—The run is not largely complained of yet it is not as large as could be desired for the last month of the season. The market appears to be perfectly flat, no sales being reported and last quotations are above buyers' views. The three vessels now loading are slowly filling up, the Jamieson to clear first. Shipments from April 1st to date have been 15,736 cs to San Francisco, 21,985 cs overland and 53,808 cs by sail to England, a total of 91,529 cases. Five lots aggregating 1500 cs passed through from Puget sound for points in Canada. This is British Columbia pack.

THE MEAT MARKET.

Quotations represent prices paid to dealers by slaughterers.

BEEF—Grass fed in good condition, 3½c gross.

VEAL—Small, 10c; large, 8@9c.

MUTTON—Ewes, 2½c; other, 2½c.

LAMBS—Good conditioned, $1 75.

HOGS—Choice fat, 6½c; fair to good, 5½c; dressed, 8@8½c.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Columbia reached San Francisco at 1.45 A. M. and the State of California sailed at 10 A. M.

The Red Cross goes down river to-night.

The Alameda is again at Flanders.

The Coloma and Alden Besse are laid up at the foot of Madison street.

THE BRITISH BAR.

The Expense Attendant on Studying Law in the United Kingdom.

"Life of J. P. Benjamin," in Courier Journal.

Professor J. C. Lyons, of Rome, Ga., while in Brussels in 1871, endeavored to make arrangements to read law in England, and to this end addressed a letter of inquiry to Judah P. Benjamin, to which the latter returned the following answer, which will be of great interest to law students in America at this time:

"I have just received yours of the 17th, and answer it at once, that you may not lose time and suffer anxiety by waiting. There is no post of any sort in a barrister's chambers in England. No one is admitted into them except students who pay a large premium for admittance. I take no students; and, of course, you seek for something that will pay you a living. That is impossible. You cannot enter into law service of any sort in England without sufficient means, not only to pay a premium, but to live for three or four years. The attorneys receive clerks on premiums varying from £100 to £500. But then clerks have to enter into articles of apprenticeship for a period of five or six years without pay. It is almost impossible to give within the space and time I can now command any sort of idea of the English system, so radically different is it in every respect from the ideas of it entertained by one brought up in the United States. I must close, therefore, by saying with regret that it is out of the question for you to make a penny in England for a series of years by any labor connected with the law. I am sorry to take away your hopes in the matter, but it is true kindness to tell you the truth nakedly at once. I was called to the bar in a year, at an expense of £500 under exceptional circumstances, which gave me a claim that is sui generis. When I say that it cost me £500, I mean independently of the cost of living.

TEMPLE, London, Jan. 10, 1871."

Senator Conger's Joke.

The Chicago News gets off the following on Senator Conger of Michigan, as an incident of the last national convention: Senator Conger sat near the newspaper racks in the Grand Pacific enjoying his cigar and a chat with his friend, Roswell G. Horr. "Can I see you a moment, Senator?" asked a strange young man. "Certainly," said the senator, rising. The young man led him away across the large room, and seemed to have something very important to impart to him, and to him alone. Clear down close in the corner the young man spoke right in the senator's ear: "I guess you don't know me. I'm the editor of the Galesburg (Michigan) Enterprise. I want you to tell me just the situation here." The senator looked a little puzzled at first, then said: "Come with me," and leading the way walked through the reading-room, down the office steps, up the ladies' parlor stairs, through the long entry, to the dining room door, and drawing him close into the corner behind a hat rack, said: "I don't know anything about it."

LOSS AND GAIN.

CHAPTER I.

"I was taken sick a year ago
With bilious fever.

"My doctor pronounced me cured, but I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I

Could not move!

I shrunk!

From 228 pounds to 120! I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as sound as a sovereign, but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life. R. FITZPATRICK.

Dublin, June 6, '81.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen—
I suffered with attacks of sick headache."

Neuralgia, female trouble, for years, in the most terrible and excruciating manner.

No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I used Hop Bitters.

"The first bottle

Nearly cured me;"

The second made me as well and strong as when a child,

"And I have been so to this day."

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,

"Pronounced by Boston's best physicians

"Incurable!"

Seven bottles of your Bitters cured him, and I know of the "Lives of eight persons"

In my neighborhood that have been saved by your bitters,

And many more are using them with great benefit.

They almost

Do miracles!" —MRS. E. D. SLACK.

How to Get Sick.—Expose yourself day and night; eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know how to get well, which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE.

KNOW THYSELF.

A Great Medical Work on Manhood.

Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Man, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretions or excesses. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each one of which is invaluable. So found by the author, whose experience for 23 years is such as probably never before fell to the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in beautiful French muslin, embossed covers, full gilt, guaranteed to be a finer work in every sense—mechanical, literary and professional—than any other work sold in this country for $2.50, or the money will be refunded in every instance. Price only $1.00 by mail, post paid. Illustrative sample six cents. Send now. Gold medal awarded the author by the National Medical Association, to the officers of which he refers.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE should be read by the young for instruction and by the afflicted for relief. It will benefit all.—London Lancet.

There is no member of society to whom THE SCIENCE OF LIFE will not be useful, whether youth, parent, guardian, instructor or clergyman.—Argonaut.

Address the Peabody Medical Institute, or Dr. W. H. Parker, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass., who may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. Chronic and obstinate diseases that have baffled the skill of all other physicians a specialty. Such treated successfully without an instance of failure.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sex [illegible] organs.

He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including disease caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.

Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often delay in calling upon the proper physician from a sense of modesty and so the disease, from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitution becomes corrupted, their [illegible] broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, or death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye, Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure [illegible], if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC

"I have cured Blood Taint by the use of Swift's Specific after I had most signally failed with the Mercury and Potash treatment."
F. A. TOOMER, M. D., Perry, Ga.

"Swift's Specific has cured me of Scrofula of twelve years' standing. Had sores as large as my hand, and every one thought I was doomed. Swift's Specific cured me after physicians and all other medicines had failed."
R. L. HIGH, Lonoke, Ark.

Give like a Christian, speak in deeds;
A noble life's the best of creeds;
And he shall wear a royal crown
Who gives a lift when men are down."

$10,000 would not purchase from me what Swift's Specific has done for me. It cured me of Rheumatism caused by malaria."
ARCHIE THOMAS, Springfield, Tenn.

STATEMENT OF T. L. MASSENBURG, MACON GA.

I have known much of the use of Swift's Specific, and have seen many of the worst cases of Blood Taint and Blood Poison cured with it, after having tried all other sorts of treatment; in fact, I have never known it to fail when taken properly. I can cite the case of a young man who had been treated by the best physicians for Blood Poison, but all to no purpose; and as the time for his marriage was approaching, he was nearly distracted. He finally took Swift's Specific, and he was cured sound as a dollar. Another, who had tried everything and spent four months at the Hot Springs of Arkansas, was at last cured by this remedy. His case was like raising one from the dead. I could go on and tell you of a hundred cases.
